About The Team Quick Start Guide

Managing a Lantern

Lantern Light VR has multiple modes: Adventure, Tower Builder, and both Freeplay and Survival modes. In each mode, you are tasked with solving a single scenario. There are four additional modes that can be unlocked with progress through the adventure mode: Arena, Time Trial, Hard Mode, and Boss Mode.

Adventure Mode

In Adventure Mode, you are tasked with collecting as many lantern rings as you can in one hour by strategically placing lantern lights. The more you fill the ring, the more points your lantern tower gains. You can also collect lantern light orbs by lighting up lantern parts in the ring. While the Lantern Tower Builder mode is not available in Adventure Mode, you can still save and load your tower data in a separate pocket. Once created, you can also save and load your lantern tower directly within the game.

Lantern Ring

The Lantern Ring represents your lantern tower. The ring is comprised of a ring of dots - or lantern rings. The more rings the ring has, the more points your lantern tower earns. You can place additional lights in the lantern ring to increase the number of rings.

Lantern Orb

Lantern Light orbs are used to light lantern parts. A light source can be either yellow, red, blue, or white, and each color lights up its respective lantern ring or lantern part. The number of lights light up a ring or lantern part is represented by the numerical weight of the light orb. Light orbs of the same color light up all lantern parts of the same ring. Creative Challenges d41b202975 is the latest title from indie studio Playloop and due out on January 30th across Playstation VR and for Oculus Rift. This third person action-adventure thriller sees players take on the role of singer Jessica Hawkins, who is trying to escape the clutches of the sinister Tall Tree Lodge after a violent encounter with the local police. Along the way we also learn the truth about her many relations who have been killed by this Blood Moon Lodge. Playloop was fortunate enough to catch up with game's lead programmer Edward Jaymes ahead of release, and as your jovial host he told us that he was having a really good first week with the VR-headset. Read on to see what he has to say.

What's new in Lantern Light VR:

Playloop: How are you liking your week so far?

Edward: Well I've had a great first week so far. I'm using it on the PlayStation VR headset and I've had a blast! There's only one thing that's been driving me a bit bonkers when I'm inside of the environment, and that's physically turning to look at things. Usually I'll walk around and I'll just be looking at textures or planks or whatever is around us, and when I'm not in the environment, or when I was sitting at my desk and I get up and walk over and peek over the ledge of the system, that's probably the biggest issue I have. That almost makes me feel nauseous! It's been a nice hiccup. I've only played one game, which was Escape from Tarkov and I really liked it. I've got so much more content that has shown up that I want to try out! I just really love how tight the stuff is and how you have to be so much more skilled with the camera in VR to take advantage of some of the things that you can do now... There's a lot of stuff in the world that you can use. [MyLabVR] has so much depth to it, it's kind of amazing. It's a really good example of how in VR you can interact with objects in the environment and really get a real sense of it. The menu-screen in Tarkov is done right, and the stuff that they've built for it is really impressive.
