Tragedy of Prince Rupert is a fast-paced 2D action shooter with a historical hot air balloon (Montgolfiere), which can dive 20,000 leagues under the sea and soar into space. You can equip guns, rockets, bombs, and grenades to fight an onslaught of enemy aircrafts, submarines, warships, battle ships, space stations, as well as explore the endless platforms of the air, the ocean, and the deep space. This is your chance to ride the Montgolfiere to the uncharted territories and discover ancient cities and artifacts, hidden diamonds, precious stones, and deep-sea world where the most deadly creatures in the deep sea live - like the Megalodon sharks and the Jaws. Your Role as a Pilot Piloting a hot air balloon, the Montgolfiere is a deadly weapon, a means to accomplish your mission and get you to the end of the game. The balloon is the only vehicle you have, and all of its features have to be properly utilized to survive, despite any odds against you. You can aim the Montgolfiere in any direction up, down, left, or right. For your first dive, you just have to aim the gondola at a place you want to go, and the Montgolfiere will head straight there, flying a straight path. So be careful not to shoot off-course, or you'll find yourself at the wrong location. There are a number of other unique features to the Montgolfiere, some of which you can unlock as you progress through the game. For example, in some missions, you may fly the Montgolfiere into small enemy ships and use their firepower to destroy them. In other missions, you may experience a "fire and forget" system, where you fire a gun and then the Montgolfiere will take off in a desired direction and go to their destination. In regular stages, every shot fired causes damage to the balloon, but in special stages, every shot fired causes even more damage. As the Montgolfiere is rapidly taking damage, its lifebar goes down as time passes, allowing for timed dives. On most special stages, you have set an exact amount of time to last for your dive. You will be unable to shoot or do anything as you face damage from enemies and the balloon is rapidly taking damage. However, when the time runs out, you will be able to get
