World News Obama Grants Long-Term Extension for Keystone XL Pipeline Tuesday, May 9, 2011 In what was seen as a minor victory for opponents of the Keystone XL pipeline, President Obama has granted TransCanada's request for an extension on its permitting process. The company had requested an extension through the end of the year in order to push through construction of the pipeline, which would run from Alberta, Canada to the U.S. Gulf coast. But Obama said the first phase of the project could not move forward until the State Department completes a final environmental review and gets feedback from tribal groups. Obama's decision came less than two days before a deadline to decide on the pipeline's future. The decision is also seen as a rebuke of the administration's environmental review process, as critics had said it was incomplete and the Obama administration had been attempting to fast-track approval of the project. "The gulf between the U.S. and Canada over this project is an insult to our shared history and our common future," Erica Ferrier, Friends of the Earth attorney, said Tuesday morning. "It's time for the Keystone XL pipeline to be scrapped. Instead of wasting thousands more of our tax dollars on this project, 6d1f23a050
